Welcome to Old Town Albuquerque's First Neighborhood

Old Town is the heart of Albuquerque's heritage. The first families settled near the banks of the Rio Grande in 1706. Albuquerque was a colonial farming village and a military outpost along the Camino Real between Chihuahua and Santa Fe. The village formed in the traditional Spanish pattern of a central plaza surrounded by a church, homes and government buildings. Some of the old homes are still standing and many have been renovated into businesses.

Provincial Governor Cuervo y Valdez named the villa (village) in honor of the Viceroy of New Spain, the Duke of Alburquerque. In the early 1800's the first "r" was dropped from the official spelling. In 1880 the railroad came to Albuquerque, a few miles east of Old Town. The area around the depot called "New Town" (now Downtown) boomed quickly into Albuquerque's commercial center. For three centuries, Old Town has been the crossroads of the Southwest. It is a Historical Zone of the City of Albuquerque and home for many families whose ancestors founded the town. Old Town is located just off I-40 (take the Rio Grande Blvd. Exit South) to the entrance at Mountain Road.

In 1937, Route 66 was changed from its original route to a straightened east-west road along Central Avenue. Route 66 meets the Camino Real (now Rio Grande Blvd.) at Old Town.

On the plaza are replicas of cannons which were buried by retreating Confederate troops during a Civil War skirmish on April 8-9, 1862. The original cannons are in the Albuquerque Museum.

ADOBE ARCHITECTURE Much of the architecture of Old Town is Pueblo-Spanish, or adobe. Adobe buildings are constructed of adobe bricks (which are mostly composed of mud and straw) that are sun-baked, mortared with mud and protected with a layer of mud or cement. They are traditionally flat-roofed, with curved edges, often supported with vigas (wooden beams supporting the roof) visible in the ceiling or protruding through walls. With the arrival of the railroad in 1880, many new building components became available. You will find several different styles of architecture, including Victorian and Contemporary.

Old Town Merchants

Old Town Merchants offer an extensive variety of treasures for you to seek out in the many small patios and back streets. Come visit us for a relaxed day of shopping.

You will discover more than 25 ART GALLERIES representing the finest in Native American and Southwestern artists. Old Town is a significant fine arts center where collectors will find a wealth of paintings, sculptures, bronzes, art prints, pottery and hand-crafted works, including items from many nationally recognized artisans.

If you are looking for CLOTHING & ACCESSORIES you will, of course, find shops with plenty of New Mexico T-shirts, but you will also find entire outfits with a special Southwestern flair & many other unique, hand-made items.

The JEWELERS in Old Town, offer an extensive variety of hand-crafted jewelry by Native American and contemporary artists in both silver and gold with traditional turquoise and precious or semi-precious gems.

Among the many GENERAL STORES, TRADING POSTS and SPECIALTY SHOPS in Old Town you will find many souvenirs and other unique treasures, including hand-carved fetishes, unique beads, kachina dolls, tiles, wood carvings, baskets, candles, cards, moccasins, rugs, weavings, SW books, furniture, fountains, kalaidoscopes, religious pieces, angels and so much more. Old Town is also a center for Spanish Colonial, Native American and Old West antiques.

CHILE You don't want to miss one of New Mexico's Treasures - Chile! It comes in red or green and evolved from a combination of Spanish and Indian recipes. You will also find Chile, hand strung into colorful Ristras, hanging on the front of buildings.

LUMINARIAS (Parolitos) Thousands of visitors and residents alike come to Old Town on Christmas Eve & during the Holiday Stroll (first Friday in December) to see the spectacular display of luminarias. Candles are set in a bed of sand inside the bottom of a paper bag. When lit they create a golden glow. Luminarias are set out to light the way for the Christ Child, and thousands of luminarias line the Church, Plaza, streets and walkways of Old Town.
